COMPILER'S NOTE

The Compiler of this Directory and Map takes this opportunity to state that in spite of patient and diligent effort numerous errors and omissions appear. In so far as such have come to his notice corrections have been made where possible. But he realizes that those readers who are especially familiar with the names and places dealt with herein will find that many errors and omissions have escaped unnoticed. The Compiler readily accepts responsibility for these faults but does plead, in extenuation, the serious obstacles always in the way of the directory compiler, and that the best means in his possession have been exerted to overcome those obstacles.

The Compiler wishes to acknowledge the valuable assistance rendered in the compilation of this Directory and Map by John R. Stanwood, Geo. A. Storer, James K. Estabrook, Oren T. Despeaux, R. W. Eaton, Prof. Geo. T. Little, Henry K. Day, John W. Riley, S. A. Walker, and many others. Acknowledgement of the financial assistance rendered by advertising patrons without whose support the issue of this volume would have been impossible, is hereby extended.

Early Days in Brunswick, Maine

NOTE—The following pages of historical matter have been largely compiled from the Wheeler history of Brunswick, Topsham and Harpswell, due acknowledgement of which is here given.
THE COMPILERS.

INTRODUCTORY

Brunswick, the largest town in the State of Maine, has a history of which her sons may well be proud. First settled by white men in 1628, only eight years after the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock, situated near the common mouth of two of the state's greatest waterways, on the thoroughfare from the New England Metropolis to the virgin territory of eastern and northern Maine, and the seat of one of the country's leading institutions of learning, it is only natural that her story should be intimately woven into that greater story of noble deeds and sterling character that the Pine Tree State proudly boasts. It is with no thought of attempting anything like a complete story of even the more important features of her history that this necessarily brief account is written, but rather to treat in a few brief pages some of the points of greatest interest in the early years that all to whom these pages come, may have, in the absence of a complete history, at least a synopsis of the story of the beginnings of the town in which they live.

EARLY SETTLEMENTS

The region about the mouth of the Androscoggin and Kennebec Rivers of which Brunswick and Topsham form a part, will always be associated with the beginning of the white man's conquest of the North American continent. Tradition tells that as early as 1605 Capt. George Weymouth ascended the river as far as The Falls. Two years later, 1607, the Popham expedition established a settlement at Small Point, which was destined to early abandonment. Nothing more was attempted toward permanent settlements till 1620, when the whole of the northern regions was granted to the Plymouth Company, which in turn made numerous grants to other companies and to individuals, among the latter being a grant to Thomas Purchase and George Way on June 16, 1632. The Purchase and Way grant was very indefinitely bounded but included lands along the Rivers Androscoggin and New Meadows. Way undoubtedly never settled here, but Purchase established himself on his new domain and engaged in trade with the Aborigines in farming and fishing. Just where he lived is still a matter of dispute and uncertainty, but the theory that appeals to the writer as most reasonable is that which locates his abode near the head waters of the New Meadows river.

However, Purchase had located on the land thus granted to him and his associates about four years earlier, 1628. Much is written concerning this historic personage, but for all that, little is actually known of the man himself save his dealings with the native tribes and his purchase and disposal of lands in this section. That he was a man of reckless daring needs no argument for any man who ventured into the gathering places of the Indians in his time could be nothing else; that he was a sharp trader, Indian tradition asserts and that he was the leading personage here in the infancy of this town the Pejepscot records easily prove. But beyond this little is known of him.

No other permanent settlers are known to have joined Purchase for many years. About 1669 Thomas Gyles settled in Topsham at Pleasant Point and was soon followed by his brother James Gyles and by James Thomas and Samuel York. A short time after Thomas Stevens settled on the New Meadows river. Alister Coombs was located here about the same time. About 1676 Lancelot Pierce bought Stevens' property and resided there for some time. Other settlers were Alexander Thwait, thought to have been located near Mr. Purchase, as early as 1654. Richard Collicut also settled near by. Thomas Haynes settled about 1658 at Maquoit. Other settlers at Maquoit, prior to 1670, were John Swain, Thomas Kimball, John Sears, Thomas Wharton, Samuel Libby, Henry Webb, Edward Creet and Robert Jordan. At Mere Point the following were settled prior to 1670: James Carter, Thomas Haynes, Andrew and George Phippeny.

Undoubtedly many others were collected together about the New Meadows and the Islands. Certainly many settlers were located within the limits of Harpswell around 1650. But with the outbreak of Indian hostilities in 1675, practically all effort to establish settlements stopped. Little more was accomplished till the beginning of the 18th century when the Pejepscot Company came into possession of this tract of land and began to promote settlements and to otherwise develop their property. The growth from this time on was more rapid and settlements more numerous. We shall make no effort to tabulate the names of succeeding settlers. Suffice it to say that once the forest had been penetrated and the tribes more or less intimidated, the settlers were emboldened to risk the dangers of frontier homes. Growth was rapid and while other parts of the state were but slowly settled at best there was no halting within the bounds of the Pejepscot company's domain. All honor to the hardy brave spirits who carved the white man's village from the trunks of the giant pine, who harnessed the waters of the roaring falls and tapped the bounty of the virgin soil.

INDIAN ACCOUNT

Probably there is no more interesting phase of the struggle of our forefathers to establish themselves in the wilderness than that which deals with their relations with the Indians. It would be difficult to find a man or woman among us who has not listened With a shudden, in youthful days, to the stories our elders have handed down concerning Indian barbarities. The hardship endured by the settlers, heroic self sacrifice by fathers and mothers and almost ferocious daring on the part of those pioneers will always stir the pride and admiration of succeeding generations; but interest in those qualities and struggles, especially among the young, pales into insignificance when we turn to a consideration of the Aborigines and their fierce onslaughts against the whites. And even for adults there is always much of interest, either of condemnation or pity, in the fate of the native tribes.

The Settlers of Brunswick while escaping some of the more ferocious of the Indian attacks, nevertheless were harassed frequently for more than a hundred years and at times open warfare was waged with the accompanying scenes of bloodshed, scalping and what was sometimes worse—captivity.

For many years immediately following the settlement, the whites succeeded in maintaining peaceful relations with the natives although much discontent existed among them on account of the alleged cheating practiced by the white traders, especially Mr. Purchase.

But in 1675 when King Philip's war against the whites throughout the northern colonies broke out, the Indians of this region were found ready to vent their spite against the "common enemy," and seemed to have treasured up recollections of all their wrongs—real and fancied—for vengeance at this time. At any rate about the fifth of September, 1675, they appeared in considerable force at the house of Thomas Purchase and under pretense of a desire to trade robbed the house and attempted to kill Purchase's son who fled for his life. No one was hurt in this melee but a few days later when a body of some twenty-five settlers were gathering the corn crop at the Purchase settlement the redskins lay in ambush for hours awaiting the time when the corn should all be harvested. When that hour arrived the blood curdling war-whoop sounded and they rushed to the attack. A sharp encounter followed, several on both sides were wounded and in the end the Indians carried away the corn. Sometime the following year the Purchase house was burned and its owner compelled to leave.

In spite of effort to conclude a treaty with the Androscoggin tribe—the most active of all—the hostilities continued and 150 men under Majors Waldron and Frost were dispatched by the government at Boston to subdue the natives and recover captives. The force landed at Mere Point on the eighteenth of February, 1677. They were met by a party of Indians including Squando and Simon, the latter referred to as "The Yankee Killer." After some parley the Indians stated that they desired peace and would bring the captives that afternoon. However nothing was seen of them till the next day when about noon a large number of Indians approached by canoe, landed, set fire to a house near by and challenged the soldiers to fight. The English attacked and killed and wounded several of them whereupon another parley was held. It was found that there was no hope of securing the captives or of very severely punishing the Indians without loss, so the expedition embarked for the Sagadahoc.

On the 12th of April, 1678, a treaty was concluded and hostilities ended for a decade. But in the spring of 1688 the Indians again took the war path and defied all attempts at conciliation. Governor Andros took an expedition into this region in November and erected Fort Andros which was located on Maine street, near its junction with Cabot street. This fort was built under the direction of Anthony Brockhold and was garrisoned by a portion of the Governor's force.

In the spring of 1690 the fort was captured by the Indians whereupon the Massachusetts authorities sent Col. Church here with three hundred men. On Sept. 13, 1690, he landed his force at Maquoit and marched by night to surround the fort at the village. At daybreak it was learned that the quarry had disappeared just before their arrival. About a year later another expedition came here, landed at Maquoit and marched to the fort but found no Indians. On their return and as they were embarking a body of Indians who had been watching from concealed places attacked the party and killed Sherburne, captain of one of the companies. Not long after a conference was held at Mere Point between Massachusetts commissioners and the sagamores of this region when a peace was concluded.

During these disturbances all attempts to maintain settlements had been abandoned, and the proprietors of this section known as the Pejepscot company, found it necessary to offer special inducements to secure soldiers to man the fort at The Falls.

The next outbreak among the tribes occurred on the 13th of June 1722, when a party of sixty Indians in twenty canoes appeared near Pleasant Point, and landing, captured nine entire families. All of these were released except five men—Hamilton, Hanson, Trescott, Love and Edgar. These they retained as hostages for the return of four Indians held at Boston. During the summer they attacked and burned the settlement at Brunswick village. They were discovered by David Dunning and another soldier as they were approaching the settlement. Dunning fled to his home at Maquoit while his companion hastened to the fort with the alarm. He was fired upon but escaped. Some of the captives were butchered and others carried away. After the sacking of the village the redskins repaired to a house on Fish House Hill (at a place near the present house of Annie Stanwood on Water street) to properly celebrate their victory. But a cannon shot from Fort George partially destroyed the house they had seized and the Indians took their boats for Pleasant Point carrying their captives with them.

A messenger was sent to Col. Harmon at Arrowsic asking assistance but the lurid flames from the burning dwellings had told the gruesome story even before the messenger reached his destination and two whale boats loaded with soldiers entered Merymeeting Bay the night following the attack. Perceiving the fires of the Indian camp at the Point the forces stealthily approached, landed and at once fired upon the sleeping enemy. Sixteen or eighteen were killed outright and many were captured.

Moses Eaton's body was discovered by the bank of the river, his tongue having been cut out, his arms and legs cut off, and then killed outright.

We hear nothing more of the Indian hostilities till April 13, 1725, when James Cochran of Maquoit was captured while fowling about the marshes. He was carried to the Ten Mile Falls. On the second night of his captivity as his captors lay down to sleep one on each side of him with a hatchet under their heads and a gun beside them he carefully watched his opportunity, seized a hatchet, killed both, scalped them and fled down the river.

- During the next few years occasional murders were committed by the Indians but no concerted movements were attempted by them till May 9th, 1756. At that time a band of Indians met at Topsham, divided into two parties and prepared for operations. One party ambushed three men not far from Maquoit and captured Abijah Young whom they carried to Topsham. The other party appeared at Flying Point in Freeport at the house of Thomas Means. He together with his wife, child and his wife's sister, Miss Molly Finney were dragged from the house. Mr. Means was shot and scalped. As her husband was being murdered, Mrs. Means rushed back into the house, closed the door, and placed a chest against it. The Indians finding the door fastened, fired directly through it and the ball passed through her breast, killing the child in her arms. Miss Finney was carried away in her nightclothes to the rendezvous at Topsham where the two parties met. Miss Finney and Mr. Young were carried to Quebec and the former sold to a farmer who set her to work in the fields. She was soon transferred to the duties of the kitchen but was kept under strict watch. Eventually Capt. Wallace of Falmouth who was at Quebec with a trading vessel, discovered her whereabouts and by means of carefully executed plans the unfortunate woman escaped to the friendly ship. She was safely landed in due time at Portland and later married the man who had rescued her. Young obtained his liberty in about a year but died in Halifax of small pox.

These adventures are about the last of the many that disturbed and endangered the lives of the settlers in this town. One item of interest centers about the famous chief Sabattis. At Maquoit one Daniel Eaton was wounded and captured in 1757 by this chief and carried to Canada. He escaped after a year and returned. More than forty years after Sabattis passed through Brunswick and called at a store on the site of one occupied in part by B. R. Jordan & Co. Eaton was sent for, was recognized by Sabattis and the two held a pleasant chat till the old chief passed on his way.

The foregoing covers only the more notable of the Indian outrages but brief space forbids further reference. The cruelty of these children of the forest cannot but excite our resentment, but they also serve to make us the more deeply respect the valor and fortitude of the pioneers who braved the dangers the savages threatened. When we stop for a moment and consider that less than two centuries ago on the spot where the hum of the busy looms in the Cabot mill sounds today the blood-curdling war whoop of the savage chilled the hearts of the settlers, we are sharply reminded of the comparative youth of our country, the rapidity of our advancement and the happy lot of the descendants of those brave and hardy men and women who builded so well the foundation upon which our civilization rests.

LEWISTON,

A BRIEF HISTORY OF MAINE.

BY

John Clair Minot.

All of us who are sons and daughters of Maine are justly proud of the place held in history by our native State, for we know that in all the great sisterhood of the Union there is no State with a past which gives its children more reason for pride. While students and writers for a long time neglected the early history of Maine, they have in recent years made more general use of the wealth of material here, and gradually the world has realized that back at the beginning of things on this continent Maine was playing a part worthy of a State whose record of achievements has been so long and brilliant in later generations.

There is no need to delve into the misty traditions of the visits of the Northmen to our shores. There is good reason to believe that they explored the shores of New England centuries before Columbus was born, but all that belongs to legendary lore rather than to the realm of recorded history. But after the New World became well known to Europe the shores of Maine were visited by the earliest explorers, and this section soon became the center of the long and bloody struggle between England and France for the possession of the continent. More than one early voyager sailed up the Penobscot River in search of the fabled Norumbega with its wonderful columns of crystal and silver.

Not until the beginning of the 17th century did the explorations have definite results. The voyages of Gosnold (1602), Pring (1603), Weymouth (1605), Champlain (1605), and John Smith (1614) were the most notable in their effect upon European knowledge of this section and in stimulating attempts at colonization. In 1604 a French expedition under De Monts planted a colony upon a little island at the mouth of the St. Croix River, then the only settlement of Europeans in all America north of the Spaniards in Florida. The colony was abandoned a year later, but it was nevertheless the real beginning of New France. The real beginning of New England was in the colony planted at the mouth of the Kennebec in August, 1607, by George Popham and 120 others sent out from England by the Plymouth Company whose head was Sir John Popham, Lord Chief Justice of England.

They built a fort, which they called Fort George, and erected a church and a score of rude houses around it. This was the first English settlement in New England, but like the French colony at the mouth of the St. Croix it was a broken beginning. The rigors of a single winter, during which their leader died, disheartened the colonists, who were largely adventurers and seekers for wealth, and in the fall of 1608 they all returned to England. Part of them made the return voyage in a little pin-nace or shallop of 30 tons which had been built soon after their arrival, the first shipbuilding venture in America and the beginning of the great industry which later made the Kennebec famed around the world. This craft was called the "Virginia of Sagadahoc," this section being then known as the northern part of that vast and vague "Virginia" which Sir Walter Raleigh had claimed for England some 20 years earlier, and the lower part of the Kennebec being known as the Sagadahoc at this time and for a century or more later.

In this same year, 1608, French Jesuits landed upon Mount Desert and a few years later they were joined by others from France, but in 1613 the colony was wiped out of existence by an English expedition from Virginia under Samuel Argall. At this time and for many years later many English traders and fishermen were frequenting the coast of Maine. Their chief rendezvous was in that region which includes Pemaquid and Monhegan and the mouths of the Sheepscot, Damariscotta and St. Georges rivers. Most of them were mere adventurers, coming and going with the seasons, and making no attempts at permanent settlement until about 1625. In 1630 it is said that 84 families, besides fishermen, were residing along the coast of this region.

The permanent settlement at Pemaquid, which was later with its successive forts to be the scene of so much stirring history, dates from 1625-26. Sir Ferdinando Gorges received in 1622 a grant of territory stretching eastward from the Piscataqua River, and within a few years Agamenticus, now York, Saco, Scarboro, Falmouth, Brunswick and Arrowsic were founded. Gorges had dreams of a city which should be the seat of great power and in 1641 Agamenticus became Gorgeanna, the first chartered city in America. In 1652 it was organized as a town and named for the English city of York, being the second town to be incorporated in what is now Maine. The first was Kittery in 1647.

The part played by Maine in saving the Plymouth colony from destruction is a chapter of special interest. It was only the corn secured at Pemaquid and the neighboring islands which saved the Pilgrims from starvation, and later it was only by means of the profits of the fur trade maintained with the Maine Indians that Plymouth was able to free itself from the burdensome debt which it owed in England. The Plymouth traders established several posts along the coast and on the lower Kennebec, but the one most important and most permanent in character was that maintained from 1625 to 1662 at Koussinoc, at the head of the tide on the Kennebec where Augusta now stands.

The post stood where Fort Western was built a century later, in 1754, and here for a generation the men who came in the Mayflower were almost as much at home as in the streets of Plymouth. Few of us here in Maine have realized the close connection between Plymouth and ancient Koussinoc on the Kennebec. There is nothing legendary or uncertain about it, but it is a matter of authentic history that Myles Standish, John Alden, the Winslows, the Bradfords, the Howlands, the Southworths and others whose names are revered as those of the men who laid the cornerstone of our civilization, came here to the spot where Augusta now stands, not once but continually through a third of a century. The site of old Fort Western and its immediate vicinity was long trod by the same feet that consecrated Plymouth Rock. These Pilgrim Fathers lived in peace with the Indians, but left wholly to the French missionaries, who came down through the wilderness from Quebec, the work of trying to civilize or Christianize them. When the game became scarce the post was abandoned.

The name of New England was given to this region by John Smith in 1614 on his voyage of exploration and trade along the coast. The name of Maine was early applied to this part of New England, as in the charter granted to Gorges by Charles I in 1639 when it is spoken of as "the Province or Countie of Mayne." The name, as is now generally accepted, came from speaking of it as "the main land" in distinction from the many islands along the shore. Massachusetts lost no time in bringing the Maine settlements under its authority, although the confusion in the charters and patents made trouble for many years. In 1652 all the towns as far east as Casco were annexed by Massachusetts, and by 1660 all Maine west of the Penobscot was claimed and retained in spite of royal orders from Charles II. The region east of the Penobscot was then and for many years later held by the French, whose claims, indeed, covered the territory westward to the Kennebec.

From 1675 to 1759 a series of Indian wars, six in all, devastated Maine, checking the tide of immigration, costing many hundreds of lives and ending at last, as such a warfare had to end, in the practical extermination of the Maine red men. The Indians had given a welcome to the early explorers and settlers which was wholly friendly, but in the course of a century they had suffered many wrongs. Their lands were taken, they were cheated in trade, the game was killed off and some of the Indians were even kidnapped and sold as slaves in Europe. Their contact with the English had brought them only degradation and injustice. Thus when King Philip's war began in Massachusetts in 1675 it was not long before the Maine Indians were drawn into it, though it was with reluctance that the peaceful Abenakis of the Kennebec region joined the other more warlike tribes at whose hands they had often suffered. At this time it is estimated that between 5000 and 6000 people lived along the coast of Maine, of whom less than 1000 were east of the Kennebec. No fewer than 300 English lives were sacrificed in Maine and most of the settlements were abandoned and desolated before peace came in 1678.

This first war was wholly between the Indians and the English settlers. All of the remaining Indian wars were incidental to the long and bloody struggle between the French and English for the possession of this part of the continent, a struggle in which the Indians were always the active allies of the French who had never stolen their land or cheated them in trade and who had won them through the zeal of the Jesuit missionaries. To follow these wars would be tedious detail. No one of them was as bloody as the first war had been, for the settlements were better protected by garrisons of soldiers from Massachusetts and the English had become more wary of surprises and ambushes. Still the fourth of these wars, usually known as Lovewell's war, 1722-25, cost the lives of fully 200 English soldiers and settlers.

During the third and fourth wars the English sent numerous expeditions against the Jesuit missionary, Sebastian Rale, whose headquarters were at Norridgewock and who had carried on for over 30 years the work which the pioneer missionary of Maine, Gabriel Druillettes, had begun in the Kennebec valley in 1646 with the sanction of the English. Beyond doubt Father Rale used his great influence to keep the Indians loyal to the French, but the English accused him of encouraging uprisings and giving countenance to Indian savagery. Four winter expeditions failed in their main purpose, but in the summer of 1724 a force of 200 English soldiers succeeded in surprising the Norridgewock village. A great part of the Indians were killed and the village was completely destroyed. Father Rale was shot with the rest and the scalp was torn from his white head to be exhibited in triumph in Boston. The power of the Kennebec Indians was broken and they never recovered from this crushing blow. Most of the survivors fled to the eastward or northward to Quebec.

The struggle between England and France continued and many of the blows of the battle fell upon Maine. It was a Maine man, William Pepperell of Kittery, who led the expedition in 1745 which captured Louisburg on Cape Breton, the chief stronghold of the French in America next to Quebec. Many hundred Maine soldiers and sailors were with this expedition, and also with the expedition of 1755 which drove the French from Acadia and that of 1758 which captured Louisburg a second time. A force of 400 French and Indians attacked the forts at St. George and Friendship in 1758, but failed to capture them, and this was the last blow struck against the English by the Indians of Maine.

In 1754, as outposts to guard the disputed border, the English built three strong forts along the Kennebec, Fort Shirley to replace Fort Richmond which had been built in 1718, Fort Western on the site of the old Plymouth trading post at Kousinoc and Fort Halifax at Teconnet or Winslow. These were never attacked and after a few years they were dismantled and abandoned, while settlements sprang up around them. The capture of Quebec in 1758 put an end to the long warfare, and with the welcome arrival of peace the tide of immigration from Massachusetts and Great Britain poured along the coast of Maine and up the river valleys.

Maine's part in the war for independence is a splendid chapter in its history. When the news came from Lexington and Concord in April, 1775, a company was formed at York and at once hurried to Boston. A Maine regiment, raised by Col. Scammon of Saco, participated in the battle of Bunker Hill. The first naval battle of the war was the capture in May, 1775, of the armed British sloop Margaretta by the intrepid patriots of Machias who refused to obey the British command that they take down the village Liberty pole. In the late fall of 1775 occurred the expedition of Arnold with 1100 troops up the Kennebec and through the wilderness in the attempt to capture Quebec and win Canada to the side of the colonies. In October of the same year Portland, then a town of 2000 people, was bombarded and burned by a British fleet of four vessels under Capt. Mowatt. The British held the Penobscot through the war, with their headquarters at Castine, and eastern Maine was the scene of several important expeditions and engagements. But the patriots of Machias and vicinity remained unsubdued, and in 1783 the treaty of peace recognized the St. Croix, instead of the Penobscot, as the eastern boundary of Maine. It has been estimated that Maine contributed over 7000 soldiers to the American army during the war, and of this number about 1100 shared with Washington the hardships of that memorable winter at Valley Forge.

Hardly had peace been declared in 1783 before the movement began for the separation of Maine from Massachusetts, a movement which was not crowned with success until 1820, 37 years later. It was at first a minority movement, but the arguments for separation became stronger as Maine grew in population and desired more the dignity and privileges of separate statehood. Then there was a political reason, as Massachusetts was strongly Federalist while Maine was in sympathy with the opposite party. The first vote of the people of Maine on the subject was taken in 1792 when 2,084 votes were cast in favor of separation and 2,438 against it. It is worthy of note, however, that in 83 of the 89 towns which made returns there was a majority in favor of separation. The six towns opposing separation were all in York county, and their overwhelming majority against it was large enough to more than overcome the majorities of the 83 towns favoring separation.

There were numerous petitions sent to the General Court during the following dozen years and several conventions were held, but the next vote was not taken until 1807 when 3,370 votes were cast for separation and 9,404 against. Plainly the movement was losing ground, but the War of 1812 greatly strengthened it and when the third vote was taken in 1816 there were 10,584 votes for separation and 6,491 against it. In the next year another vote resulted 11,969 for separation and 10,347 against it. The fifth and final vote in 1819 resulted 17,091 for and 7,132 opposed. Every town in Maine gave a majority for separation. In the meantime there had been no end of lively discussion in both Maine and Massachusetts and many debates in the General Court. The people of Massachusetts were very unwilling at first to allow the separation, but finally left the decision wholly with Maine. There was still the struggle in Congress, but under a compromise Maine was admitted as a free state to offset the admission of Missouri, and on March 15, 1820, the separation from Massachusetts became complete.

A constitutional convention was at once held in Portland and only 796 votes were cast in the new State against the constitution there drawn up. William King of Bath became the first Governor, receiving 21,083 votes of the 22,014 cast. The temporary seat of government was Portland and in 1827 Augusta was made the permanent capital, other places which presented claims for the honor being Belfast, Wiscasset, Brunswick and Hallowell. When Maine became a State in 1820 its population was 298,335 and it contained nine counties and 236 towns. The population in 1790 was 96,540; in 1800 it was 151,719, and in 1810 it was 228,705. At each census since Maine's admission as a State its census has been as follows: 1830, 399,455; 1840, 501,793; 1850, 583,169; 1860, 628,279; 1870, 626,915; 1880, 648,936; 1890, 661,086; 1900, 694,466. In 1900 Maine ranked 30th among the States of the Union in population.

In the second war with Great Britain Maine bore an important part. A Maine man, Gen. Henry Dearborn of Gardiner, was at first the commander-in-chief of the national army, and Maine's quota of the troops called for was 2,500 men. The famous naval battle in which the American brig Enterprise captured the British brig Boxer, occurred Sept. 5, 1813, off the mouth of the Kennebec. The British early invaded eastern Maine, capturing Eastport, Castine, Belfast, Machias, Frankfort, Hampden, Bangor and other towns. The few companies of militia could offer little resistance to the thousands of British regulars. At Bangor the enemy burned 14 vessels, carried others away and plundered much public and private property. Although the treaty of peace was signed Dec. 24, 1814, the British did not evacuate Castine until the following April. The "cold year" of 1816 was almost as much of a blow to Maine as the war had been. There was snow in every month, the crops were complete failures and it is estimated that about 15,000 people moved out of the State, most of them going westward to Ohio.

After Maine's admission to the Union in 1820 prosperity reigned and the State made substantial progress. The first event of general historic interest was the dispute over the northeastern boundary, commonly called the "Aroostook War" or "Madawaska War." The line had long been in dispute and was the cause of frequent quarrels among the settlers and lumbermen of the St. John and St. Croix region. The officials sent to the border by the authorities of Maine and New Brunswick in 1839 came into collision. The militia was called out and there was a mustering of forces by both sides, but through the intercession of Gen. Scott, the head of the United States army, who came to Augusta for the purpose, it was decided to refer the question to arbitration, and thus the threatened bloodshed was averted. By the Ashburton treaty of 1842, Daniel Webster being the American commissioner, the line was fixed greatly to the advantage of Maine, and the State received $200,000 as reimbursement for the expenses incurred in defending the integrity of American territory. After the signing of this treaty in 1842 the small body of United States troops which had been kept at Houlton since 1826 was withdrawn and the post abandoned.

After years of temperance agitation Maine led the way in legislation on this subject. In 1851 Governor Hubbard signed the famous "Maine Law" which had been drawn by Mayor Neal Dow of Portland and passed by the Legislature through his efforts. This was the first prohibition law enacted by any state, and after being made more stringent in later years its principle was embodied in the fifth amendment to the constitution which was adopted in 1884. In recent years there have been vigorous assaults upon Maine's prohibition policy and attempts to have the question of constitutional prohibition resubmitted to the people, but without success.

No state in the Union had a more glorious record in the Civil War than Maine. From Bull Run, where one-fourth of the Federal troops were volunteers from Maine, to Appomattox, where Gen. Chamberlain of Maine received the sword of Lee in surrender, the sons of Maine were always at the front and did their part. No state in proportion to its population sent more men to the defense of the Union. Over 70,000 Maine men enlisted under the old flag. There were over 30 full regiments of infantry, two of cavalry, one double regiment of heavy artillery, several batteries and hundreds of men who went into the navy, and when the regiments after long service were decimated by battle and disease they were recruited again and again. No regiments had heavier losses in battle than some of those from Maine. Maine regiments were the first to carry back the flag to South Carolina and Texas. No Maine regiment lost its colors in dishonor, or brought them back with any other stain upon them than the life blood of their defenders. The State has no more precious possession than those returned Maine battleflags which are treasured at the State House in Augusta.

The financial burden which the war imposed upon Maine is indicated by the growth of the bonded debt of the State from $700,000 in 1860 to over $6,100,000 in 1866, while in every town and city the debt burden was similarly increased. Moreover, there was such a drain upon the State that its population actually decreased in the decade from 1860 to 1870, a misfortune which overtook no other Northern state except New Hampshire. But no figures of troops furnished or of losses in battle, no statistics of increasing debt or decreasing population can measure what those four years of war meant to the patriotic people of Maine—the sorrow, the sacrifice and the suffering, the desolated homes and the broken lives.

As to the political history of Maine it may be said briefly that in the early years the State was usually Democratic, and only once, in 1840, was its electoral vote cast for the Whig presidential candidate. Since the formation of the Republican party in 1856, a movement in which Maine took a leading part, the State has been emphatically Republican at every presidential election, and also at every gubernatorial election except those of 1878 and 1880 when a fusion of the Democrats and the Greenback party succeeded in electing their candidate for Governor. The Governor chosen in 1878 was Alonzo Garcelon of Lewiston, and in 1879, when another election was held, Governor Garcelon, desirous of gaining the Legislature for his party, seized every opportunity afforded by the irregular way in which the election returns were then handled to refuse certificates to Republican candidates and seat Democrats in their place. In this way a Democratic majority was secured and the Legislature was organized. The Republicans, gaining possession of the State House, organized a rival body, and proceeded to elect Daniel F. Davis as Governor since no candidate had received a majority at the polls. Feeling was intense throughout the State and Augusta became an armed camp. Peace was preserved by the militia until a decision of the Supreme Court established the legality of the Republican Legislature. This affair of the "State Steal" or "Count Out," as it is referred to, was a crisis in the history of Maine and it is little less than a miracle that bloodshed was averted. In 1880 the system of annual elections was given up and the present system of biennial elections adopted.

In the years that have passed since the Civil War Maine has enjoyed a progress that has been steady and substantial. The gain in population has not been great, only about 100,000 in 40 years, for this State, in common with the others of New England, has suffered from a declining birthrate among the old stock and has seen for many years a continuous procession of its sons and daughters departing for the great cities and for all sections of the West. Factors in the increase of population have been the Swedish immigration to Aroostook and the influx of French Canadians to the manufacturing centers. The former began in 1870, through the efforts of Hon. W. W. Thomas, Jr., of Portland, and the hardy, industrious and sober Scandinavians, with their descendants, have been an important factor in the development of the great Aroostook region. The earliest European element, not English, to be introduced was the German colony brought in by Samuel Waldo who, in 1739, founded the town of Waldoboro. The Irish began to come in as laborers a century later with the beginnings of railroad construction. The Canadian immigrants have confined themselves largely to the cotton manufacturing centers of Lewiston, Biddeford, Augusta and Waterville. In this connection it is of interest to note that of the 15,878 births in Maine in 1907, 9,452 were the children of American parents and 3,265 the children of foreign-born parents, while in 2,891 cases one of the parents was foreign-born. In the same year there were 11,427 deaths in the State, 6,498 marriages and 787 divorces.

The material prosperity of Maine is indicated by the State valuation for 1907 which was given by the State assessors as $354,516,848. This was a gain of $72,640,047 in the preceding decade. Of the valuation in 1907 about 45 per cent was in the 20 cities of the State. In 1907 the 52 savings banks of Maine held deposits of $85,382,447, representing the savings of 225,346 depositors. This takes no account of the many millions deposited in the savings departments of the trust companies and national banks. It is an eloquent evidence of the thrift and industry of our Maine people and is a showing which few states can approach. Ten years earlier the 52 savings banks had deposits of $57,476,895 in the names of 163,115 depositors. The bonded debt of the State, which was $6,100,000 at the close of the Civil War, has been reduced to $334,000 in 1908 and will soon be wholly wiped out. Of the 521 municipalities of the State—20 cities, 428 towns and 73 plantations—280 are in 1908 without a dollar of municipal debt and a large share of the others are nearly free from debt.

The shipbuilding industry which was so important on our coast for generations, and in which Maine long held first place among the states, has declined in recent years, and the cutting of ice for export is no longer a thriving business. Along other industrial lines, however, there has been increasing prosperity. The development of the pulp and paper business has been followed by more extensive operations in the Maine woods. Although forests still cover about three-fourths of the area of Maine, the primeval growth of pine for which the State was famed has long since disappeared. It is the vast spruce tracts that supply the great pulp mills and the many saw mills on the rivers of the State. There are also extensive manufactures in hardwood. Agriculture is on a far better basis than in earlier years, and much more attention is paid to dairying, orcharding and potato raising. Over 95 per cent of Maine's 60,000 farms are owned by the men who till them. Maine ranks second among the states in granite production and high in its general mineral resources. In its fisheries it has more persons employed than any other New England state, nearly 20,000 according to the latest figures. Cotton mills are the leading industries in several cities on the Saco, Androscoggin and Kennebec, and woolen mills, lumber mills, shoe factories and general manufacturing establishments prosper in all parts of the State, though only a very small part of the water power is yet utilized. The steam railroads of the State, which began in 1836 with the little road from Bangor to Old Town, have in 1908 a total of 2,145 miles and there are also 384 miles of electric road.

The development of Maine's summer resort business within the past generation and the increasing appreciation of the value of its fish and game resources have been an important factor in the prosperity of the State. Maine, with its unrivaled summer climate, its 3,000 miles of magnificent coast line, its 1,600 beautiful lakes, its 5,000 rivers and streams, its vast and unbroken forests, its rugged mountains and its many picturesque villages among the hills and ponds, has won the name of "the nation's summer playground," and thousands upon thousands of vacationists and tourists, hunters and fishermen, seekers for rest and lovers of Nature at her best are thronging within our borders each summer, adding many millions of dollars yearly to the revenues of our people. There are summer colonies all along the coast and at a hundred inland points, and the names of scores of Maine's summer resorts are familiar throughout the land. This annual invasion of summer visitors is solving in large measure the "abandoned farm" problem of a few years ago.

From the earliest colonial times the cause of education has been dear to the hearts of the people of Maine. When the State was admitted in 1820 there were 24 incorporated academies within its borders and others were established later. Many of these, the oldest and strongest, survive, though the free high school law, which dates from 1873, proved a death blow to a large part of the academies. One of the first laws of the new State was that requiring every town to raise not less than 40 cents annually per inhabitant for school purposes. The State has long had a compulsory attendance law covering the ages from 7 to 15, and few states have a lower rate of illiteracy. The old district plan of school supervision has given way to town management and to management by two or more towns uniting for the purpose. In 1907 the whole number of those of school age in the State, 5 years to 21, was 209,950; the number of different scholars registered in the public schools during the year was 131,671. There were 3,989 public schoolhouses in the State and the estimated value of the school property was $6,151,746. The amount expended on the public schools of the State in 1907 was $2,040,285. There were 4,698 female teachers and 460 male teachers employed. The State maintains Normal schools at Farmington, Castine, Gorham and Presque Isle and there are Normal departments at several seminaries and institutes. The institutions of higher education are Bowdoin College at Brunswick, dating from 1794; Colby College, which was established as Waterville College in 1820; Bates College at Lewiston, established in 1863, and the University of Maine at Orono which has developed from the Maine State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts which was established in 1868. There are also the Bangor Theological Seminary at Bangor, dating from 1814, and St. Mary's College at Van Buren, established in 1887.

But the greatest glory of Maine is not in its civil history, its military record, its political institutions, its industrial development, its educational progress, its material prosperity, its wealth of resources or its natural attractions. These things are themes for chapters in the story of our State, and the knowledge of them makes us love it more, but the proudest boast of Maine is the sons it has given to the world. These are the real test of a state's greatness, and measured by such a test the State of Maine has justified its motto of "Dirigo." Let us mention briefly a few of the great names that Maine can claim, names which the world knows and which the passing years will not dim.

To statesmanship and the great realm of public affairs Maine has given Sir William Phipps, George Evans, Sargent Prentiss, Jonathan Cilley, William Pitt Fessenden, John A. Andrew, Hannibal Hamlin, Lot M. Morrill, the Washburn brothers, Hugh McCulloch, James G. Blaine, Nathan Clifford, Luther Severance, Thomas B. Reed, Nelson Dingley, Jr., Melville Weston Fuller, William P. Frye, Eugene Hale, Charles E. Littlefield, John D. Long, Alfred E. Buck, United States minister to Japan, W. W. Thomas, Jr., long our minister to Sweden, Frank S. Black, governor of New York, DeAlva S. Alexander, the senior in service of the present New York congressional delegation, Senators Felch of Michigan, Grover of Oregon, Washburn of Minnesota, Gibson of Montana and Perkins of California, Governor Dole of Hawaii, Governor Pingree of Michigan, and scores of others who have attained eminence in public office in this and in many other states as governors, as members of Congress, as judges and in various offices of distinction. No other state ever produced such a family as the Washburn family of Livermore. This one family gave to the public service one United States senator, four members of Congress from four different states, two foreign ministers, two governors of two different states, one major general in the army and one captain in the navy.

Among those who have gained fame in the stern work of war Maine claims such leaders as Sir William Pepperell, Gen. Henry Knox, Gen. Henry Dearborn, Commodore Edward Preble, Gen. Oliver Otis Howard, Gen. Joshua L. Chamberlain, Gen. Berry, Gen. Selden Connor and Gen. Thomas W. Hyde.

To literature Maine has given Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Nathaniel P. Willis, Seba Smith, the Abbott family, Elijah Kellogg, Sarah Orne Jewett, Rebecca Sophia Clark, Edward Stanwood, Arlo Bates, Charles A. Stephens, Martha Baker Dunn, Laura E. Richards, Edwin Arlington Robinson, Holman F. Day and a host of others of lesser fame, but whose works have strength and beauty and the elements of permanency. To music and art Maine has given Annie Louise Cary, Emma Eames, Madame Nordica, Franklin Simmons, the sculptor, Alfred Stone, the architect, and Eastman Johnson, the painter; to the stage, Sol Smith Russell, Richard Golden, Dustin Farnham and Maxine Elliott. Among Maine men whose scientific achievements the world has honored may be mentioned Parker Cleveland, Fordyce Barker, Sir Hiram Maxim and Robert E. Peary.

To educational work Maine has given such men as Nathan Lord, for 35 years president of Dartmouth, President Harris of Amherst, President Mosher of Hillsdale College, Chancellor

Day of Syracuse University, Albert K. Smiley, the founder and patron saint of the Mohonk Conference, Mary J. Garland, the pioneer in kindergarten work in America, and many great teachers of far-reaching influence whose names have long been honored and beloved at our own Maine colleges. In the great world of business affairs we find such sons of Maine as William Deering of Chicago, the harvester king; Melville E. Ingalls of Cincinnati, the Western railroad magnate; Jacob L. Greene, president for 30 years of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company; John F. Dryden of New Jersey, the builder and head of the great Metropolitan Insurance Company; Thomas H. Hubbard of New York, banker, railroad man and philanthropist; Frank H. Munsey, who has revolutionized the magazine business; Henry V. Poor, the country's leading railroad statistician; Henry W. Poor, railroad president and banker; Charles W. Morse of New York, organizer of ice trust and steamboat trust; Francis H. Clergue, organizer of stupendous industrial and transportation enterprises in western Canada; Charles C. Stickney of St. Paul, railroad president; E. C. Allen, founder of Augusta's publishing industries; the Ricker brothers of Poland Spring, the greatest summer hotel men in the world; John F. Stevens, for a time at the head of the Panama canal commission; Eben Jordan, the great Boston merchant; and Edwin Ginn and Dana Estes, the publishers.

To journalism Maine has given such names as Crosby S. Noyes of the Washington Star, Edwin B. Haskell of the Boston Herald, Edward P. Mitchell of the New York Sun, and Morrill Goddard of the New York Journal; to theology such names as Samuel Harris, Henry B. Smith, Roswell Dwight Hitchcock, Newman Smyth, Egbert C. Smyth, John S. Sewall, Charles Carroll Everett, Edwin Pond Parker, Bishop Spaulding of Colorado, Charles Fletcher Dole, Minot J. Savage and the Abbotts; to the work of spreading Christianity in dark and distant lands such great missionaries as Cyrus Hamlin, George Dana Boardman, Americus Fuller, Daniel Dole and James Liddell Phillips. Maine has given to the good cause of making the old world laugh such names as Artemus Ward and Bill Nye. In the work of temperance legislation no name is better known than that of the pioneer in this cause, Neal Dow of Maine. In the great organization of women banded together "for God and home and every land," no name is higher than that of Lillian M. N. Stevens, long its national leader. In Masonry, the greatest of all secret orders, no American name is more revered than that of Josiah H. Drummond. Among all the great anti-slavery agitators in the years before the war none worked with more impassioned zeal than Elijah and Owen Lovejoy, the former dying a martyr's death at the hands of a mob in Illinois.

The list is incomplete enough, but it indicates something of the part that Maine has played in American history as a Mother of Men. The contemplation of such a roll of honor brings to our minds a realization of the true glory whose luster sheds its deathless radiance upon the name of Maine. The past of our State is secure, and who can doubt its future?

Agricultural Statistics.

(From the United States Census Report.)

Maine has a total land area of 29,895 square miles, of which 9,844 square miles, or 32.9%, are included in farms. The surface consists of two great slopes, the northern and the southern. The northern slope, comprising about one-third of the total area, is drained by the St. John river and its tributaries, the southern slope by numerous streams which flow into the Atlantic. The broad, flat divide which separates the two slopes serves as a natural reservoir, most of the rivers of the State having their sources in the large lakes of this region. Some of the lakes have outlets on both sides of the watershed.

The surface of a large part of the State is rugged and broken. The soil of the river valleys is very productive, but in the mountainous regions and along the sea coast it is for the most part sterile. The Aroostook Valley, which comprises the largest area of fertile farming land in New England, has a deep, porous, yellow loam, especially adapted to the growing of fruits and vegetables. This section has developed remarkably during the last decade.
